

Malaria in Morocco

There is a small risk of benign malaria from May to October in eastern parts of the country in rural valleys, west of the Atlas mountains (Al Hoceima, Taounate and Taza provinces.) Drug resistance has not been reported.

Even if an area has a limited risk chemoprophylaxis may still be advised. Please refer to the malaria prevention section for Morocco for further detail.

